

PRIZE MONEY

The total prize money for this year's Roland-Garros tournament comes to 61.723 million euros, up 9.53% compared with last year.

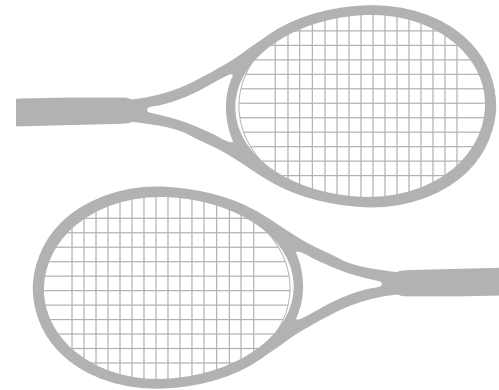

In 2026, Roland-Garros has decided to continue supporting the qualifying rounds, to help the players who need it most to finance their season and maintain their structure. The total prize money for the qualifying event has been increased by 12.9%.

The prize money for the main draw is up 10.1% compared with 2025. A particular effort has been made for the first three rounds of the singles draw, with an increase of between 11.11 and 11.54%. The tournament also wanted to offer more prize money for all of the other rounds of the main draw, with an increase of between 6.82 and 9.80% compared with 2025.

As for the prize money for the doubles events (women's, men's and mixed), it has increased by 3.90% compared to last year.

Finally, the prize money allocated to this year's wheelchair and quad tennis competitions comes to 1,018,500 euros, which represents a 14.55% increase.

It should be noted that the total prize money amount includes the Legends Trophy by Emirates prize money, as well as the Per Diem (daily accommodation allowance).
